Notice of Potential Thermal Expansion High Pressure

This utility uses check valve meter setters for the protection of both the customers & the utility from potential back flow or back siphonage from the customer's service. This can result in a buildup of pressure in the customers piping due to thermal expansions arising from the customer's hot water heater. The customer is advised to assure that a thermal expansion tank is installed in the customer's piping system. The utility is not responsible for any cost associated with the installation or maintaining the thermal expansion protection equipment, nor is the utility liable for any damages to person or property arising from failure of thermal expansion protection equipment to work properly, or for the customer's failure or refusal to install thermal expansion protection equipment.
